*November 17, 2015 - 6:00 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.
Chasco Middle School Cafeteria*

Children are exposed to risks in the community that can threaten their healthy development. Strong family relationships and clear communication can protect children from these risks! This series of conversations will help build the skills for a strong parent-child relationship, answer questions you have and help engage parents in school activities. These conversations will help build life skills to develop cooperation, self-esteem and responsibility in your children while answering questions you have on how to keep your children safe.
